

A teaspoon of humming birds. Perhaps the most remarkable bird photograph ever taken.
Photo by A. A. Allen.

Cambridge University games, showing the start of the one mile race. Underwood & Underwood.

At left—Spring is here, for the bridge path in Central Park is crowded with riders these fine days. This photograph shows Mr. and Mrs. Vivaudou.
Keystone.

This is not a motion picture stunt, but a Bulgarian cavalryman putting his horse through its routine. American, Italian and Bulgarian cavalymen are noted for their daring horsemanship. International.

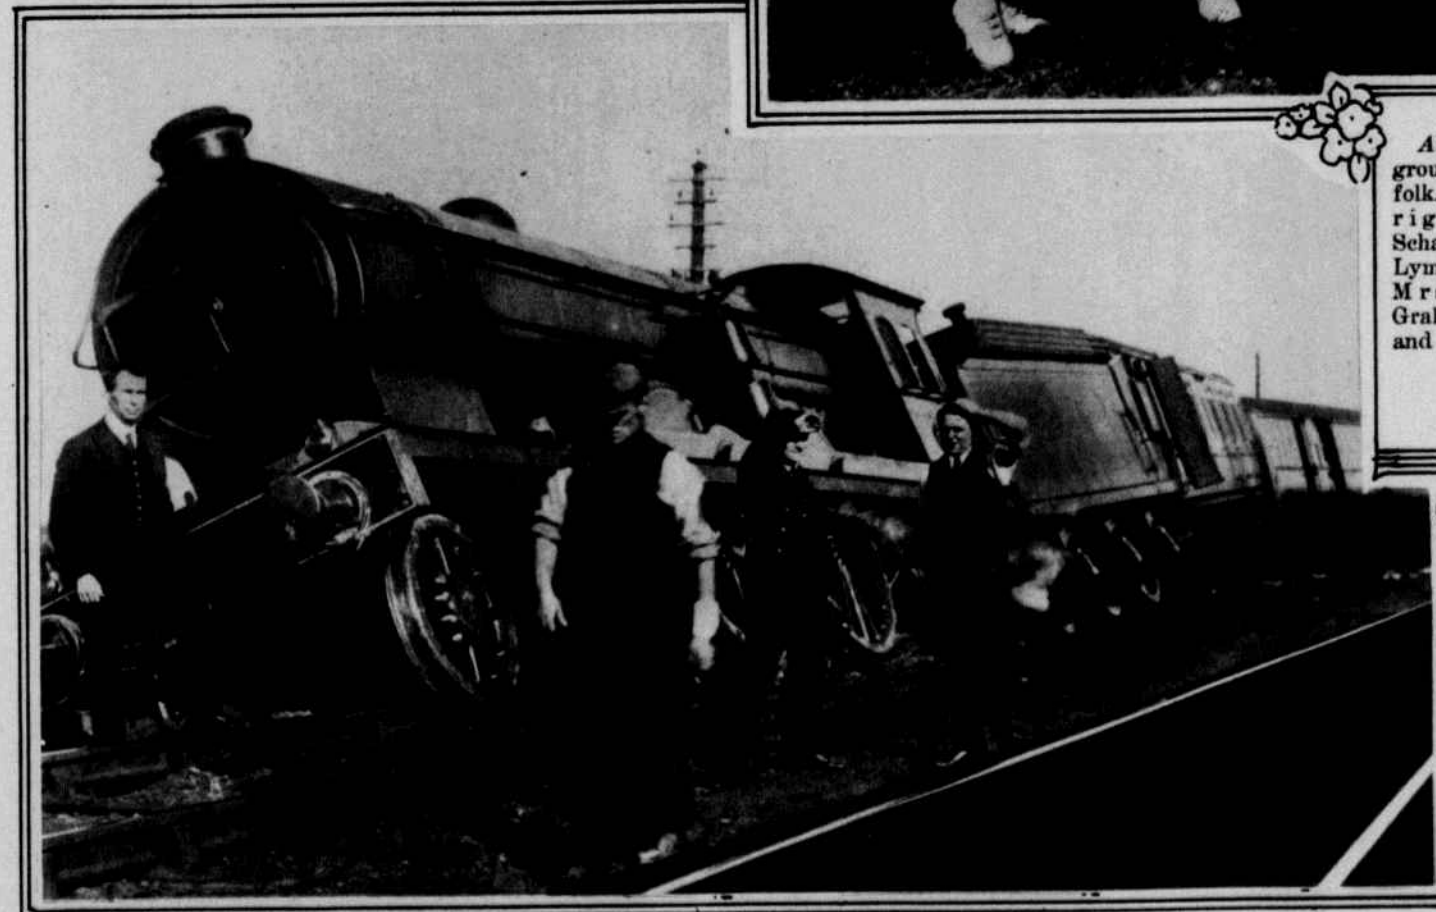

Mildred Delma, concert singer, is the soloist in Calvary Church, Washington, at which President Harding worships.
Copyright, Underwood & Underwood, 1922.

Above—Just a group of society folk. From left to right, A. A. Schantz of Detroit, Lyman B. Kendall, Mrs. Claude Grahame-White and Capt. White.
International.

Margaret Lawrence, above, has made a decided hit in her role in "Lawful Larceny," playing at the Republic Theater. A. C. Johnston.

This picture shows the Edinburgh-London express, derailed while travelling sixty miles an hour, by running into a herd of cattle at Goswick. Eleven of the bullocks were killed, the engine and forward coaches were derailed and the permanent way was torn up for a quarter of a mile.
Central News.

Every year the fashionable world goes to Pinehurst for the balmy pine air and incidentally to play golf. Here are Mrs. Tracy Lewis of Brooklyn and her sister, Miss Gertrude Meedrom of Washington, teeing off.
Dunham.